

The 1st Asia Conference on Edge Intelligence and Service Computing (Asia EISC 2026)

The 1st Asia Conference on Edge Intelligence and Service Computing (Asia EISC 2026) will be held in Singapore from July 3-5, 2026.

This international conference aims to bring together researchers, engineers, practitioners, and educators from around the world to explore cutting-edge advancements in edge intelligence and service computing.

Asia EISC 2026 will provide an interdisciplinary platform for the latest innovations and research findings in the fields of edge computing, IoT, cloud services, and AI-powered solutions.

Organizing Committees

Conference Co-Chair

- Assoc. Prof. Siew-Kei Lam, IEEE Senior Member, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Program Committee Chairs

- Prof. Xinheng Wang, IET Fellow, Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University, China
- Assoc. Prof. Weiwei Jiang, IEEE Senior Member, Beijing University of Posts and Telecommunications, China

Local Chair

- Asst. Prof. Xiaorong Li, IEEE Senior Member, Singapore Institute of Technology, Singapore

Publication

All papers submitted to the 1st Asia Conference on Edge Intelligence and Service Computing (Asia EISC 2026) will undergo a rigorous peer-review process. All accepted and registered papers will be published in the Asia EISC 2026 Conference Proceedings published by SPiE and submitted for indexing in major databases such as EI Compendex and Scopus.

Topics of Asia EISC 2026

- Edge AI for Imaging & Embedded Vision
- Computational Imaging & Imaging Pipelines at the Edge
- Multimodal Sensing & Sensor Fusion for Edge Perception
- Remote Sensing, UAV, and Geospatial Edge Analytics
- Intelligent Edge Services & Cloud-Edge Orchestration for Sensing Workloads
- Trustworthy, Secure, and Efficient Edge Intelligence for Imaging/Sensing
